08:50 - 09:20 Registration, tea/coffee, networking & exhibition stands

09:20 - 09:25 Welcome from the sponsor Libertatem Healthcare Group

09:25 - 09:30 Welcome from the Conference Chair Ian Brownhill, Barrister, 39 Essex Chambers

09:30 - 09:45 Understanding Complex Family Dynamics in Brain Injury Rehabilitation

This session will explore the case of a young person with an acquired brain injury (ABI), navigating recovery within a multicultural family setting alongside three siblings. Parental struggles in setting boundaries—exacerbated by their own trauma history and a sibling's learning disability—contribute to ongoing challenges in behaviour management.

Key Challenges:

- Social isolation and loss of structure due to absence from education.
- Medical risks linked to diabetes and weight concerns.
- Severe emotional regulation difficulties, resulting in violent outbursts that jeopardise family safety.
- Increased sexual exploration and disinhibition, raising concerns about vulnerability and safeguarding.

Discussion Points:

- Strategies for reintroducing structure and social engagement.
- Holistic health interventions addressing medical and emotional needs.
- Trauma-informed approaches to boundary-setting and behaviour management.
- Safeguarding measures for vulnerable young people navigating increased impulsivity.
- This session will provide insights into multidisciplinary approaches that balance psychological safety, family support, and specialist interventions for ABI rehabilitation.

Maggie Sargent, Founder & Catastrophic Injury Case Manager, CCM & Rob Kuschel, CCM Associate & BABICM Advanced Registered Practitioner Case Manager

09:45 - 10:30 The Hats We Wear: The Role of Psychology in Complex Rehabilitation Systems

Working with individuals who have complex needs, along with the extensive family and professional systems surrounding them, requires effective communication, clarity of direction, and emotional containment. This applies equally (if not more) to the clinical team, as well as to the client and their family.

This presentation will outline how different aspects of the (neuro)psychologist's role can assist teams in navigating these multifaceted dynamics. The speaker will introduce some underpinning theory and considerations, as well as practical tips and strategies for managing the inevitable breakdowns and ruptures that frequently occur in the process, using a case presentation as a framework. Topics will include the use of formulation to help make sense of people's stories; the question of "Which hat am I wearing today?" to explore the importance of understanding and managing professional boundaries; the value of taking risks and why doing so can be just as important as managing them; and finally, attention to emotional needs, including the often under-recognised role of play in supporting psychological wellbeing.

11:00 – 11:15 Case in Focus: Update & Next Steps

Building on the case study introduced earlier, this session provides an update on the impact of neuropsychological input and the ongoing developments shaping the support plan. While interventions have led to significant improvements in the clinical team and systems around the client, new complexities have emerged that require careful navigation and further multidisciplinary collaboration. Attendees will gain insight into the evolving realities of case management, bridging neuropsychological expertise with practical considerations in safeguarding, funding, and holistic care planning.

Rob Kuschel, CCM Associate & BABICM Advanced Registered Practitioner Case Manager

11:15 - 11:50 Case Management & Independent Social Work: Reflecting on Practice & Preventing Safeguarding Escalation

In complex family situations, the roles of case managers and independent social workers are pivotal in delivering the right support at the right time—and in preventing safeguarding issues from escalating unnecessarily. This session uses a live case study to reflect on current case management practices and consider how we can recognise when enough has been done, or where gaps remain. We will explore the unique contribution of the independent social worker in assessing family dynamics and mitigating risk, and examine how targeted parenting assessments and support can enhance family capacity and reduce the need for formal safeguarding proceedings. Attention will also be given to how culturally sensitive, needs-led strategies can be integrated into effective support plans, and how to work collaboratively with statutory services to ensure timely and appropriate intervention.

Nikki Hopkins, Operations Director & Case Manager, CCM and Olivia Mannering, Social Worker & Safeguarding Specialist, Cotswold Safeguarding Consultancy

11:50 - 12:35 The Financial Tightrope: Balancing Legal, Financial, and Welfare Needs in Complex Family Systems

This session will explore the role of a financial deputy in complex cases, highlighting the transition families often experience as they shift from being primary decision-makers to working alongside a deputy. It will examine what types of support and services can be funded, along with the key criteria used to assess and approve financial decisions. The session will also address the deputy's involvement in welfare-related matters, focusing on how financial oversight intersects with safeguarding responsibilities and considerations around quality of life. Accommodation issues will be explored, particularly in situations where the client owns the property but family members are living in it. Finally, the session will emphasise the value of collaborative working between deputies, case managers, and families to ensure holistic and needs-led decision-making.

Ruth Wright, Director, EMG Solicitors

12:35 - 13:35 Lunch, networking & exhibition stands

13:35 - 13:50 Case in Focus: Evolving Challenges & Future Directions

As the case study has unfolded throughout the conference, multidisciplinary input—including neuropsychological assessment, safeguarding concerns and financial oversight, considerations—has begun shaping the approach to intervention. While progress has been made, culturally-sensitive considerations, complex family dynamics, and resource limitations, continue to present new challenges, requiring strategic adaptation. This session sets the scene for the upcoming discussions. Attendees will gain a clear understanding of the emerging priorities in this evolving case, ensuring discussions in the next sessions are framed within the realities of effective intervention, collaborative problem-solving, and long-term support planning.

13:50 - 14:35 Culturally-Sensitive Clinical Practice: Exploring Beliefs, Barriers and Balanced Decision-Making

Recognising that we all live in and work with increasingly diverse communities, Dr Vohora will explore the multi-faceted role of culture, and consider how professionals can contribute to culturally-sensitive patient care. This talk will also explore beliefs relating to help-seeking and care giving roles (particularly within Asian communities), how to foster effective collaborative relationships and the importance of respectful communication. Barriers to engagement with services will also be considered.

Dr Reena Vohora, Consultant Clinical Psychologist, Academic Tutor and Equality, Diversity & Inclusion Lead: University of Oxford & Gray Matter Neuropsychology Services

14:35 - 15:05 Navigating the Legal Maze: Securing Support When Funds Run Dry

When private funds deplete, ensuring ongoing care and support for vulnerable clients becomes a legal and practical challenge. This session explores public law solutions and strategic approaches to securing statutory support, including:

- Maximising stretched statutory services— Legal options and responsibilities of local authorities under the Care Act 2014
- Where does the NHS fit in? Exploring Continuing Healthcare (CHC) funding, joint packages, and legal entitlements.

Alex Rook, Partner, Rook Irwin Sweeney LLP

15:05 - 15:20 Balancing Act: Managing Diabetes with people in Complex Cases alongside NHS teams

Supporting people with diabetes with complex health requirements needs a multidisciplinary approach, ensuring medical needs are met while addressing wider health, social, and cultural factors. This session explores through a case study:

- Key risks in diabetes management, including medical complications, capacity issues, and safeguarding concerns.
- Building an effective support package, integrating NHS care, case management, and family-led support.
- Supporting treatment plans that work for everyone, addressing cognitive, behavioural, and lifestyle challenges.
- Cultural sensitivities in diabetes care, including dietary considerations, and family involvement.
- NHS providers can collaborate with case managers, deputies, and families to ensure sustainable, person-centred care.

Katie Hards, Lead Diabetes Nurse, Oxford University Hospital Trust
