STRENGTHEN YOUR PRACTICE WITH A CLEAR
UNDERSTANDING OF HOW LAW AND REHABILITATION INTERSECT.

A practical webinar for case managers and therapists working in litigated claims. Stepping into litigation can feel like entering a fast-moving system with its own rules, pressures and priorities. This webinar gives you the clarity, structure and know-how to navigate it confidently and work effectively with the legal team.

Hosted by Sarah Griggs and Lauren Hurney, Partners in the Serious Injury and Medical Negligence teams at Irwin Mitchell.

This focused webinar demystifies the medico-legal landscape for case managers and therapists working with clients involved in litigated claims. It provides a grounded, practical overview of what happens, when it happens and how your clinical role directly influences legal outcomes.

This webinar will take you through the interplay and vital importance of your role in the legal case. We will focus on key issues including:

- Establishing a legal claim – how cases begin, what must be proven and what information the legal team relies upon
- Principles of compensation – understanding damages, rehabilitation needs and how your input shapes the evidence
- Early intervention and interim payments – why timing is crucial and how frontline clinicians can help unlock early funding
- Working collaboratively – how case managers and legal teams can coordinate to maximise rehabilitation outcomes
- Witness statements – what they are, why they matter and how your day-to-day observations contribute to the client's story
- Experts and interdisciplinary teamwork – navigating expert assessments and ensuring therapy input is used effectively
- Supporting clients through litigation – managing expectations, safeguarding wellbeing and maintaining clarity
- Court process – the journey from claim to resolution
- Settlement – how cases conclude and what happens next for the client and MDT

Designed for those new to litigation or seeking to strengthen their medico-legal confidence, this session gives you the insight and practical understanding needed to work effectively and comfortably within a legal claim.
